Under Training of Shrubbs They Are Getting Into Form for Princeton Meet.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., October 28.—Alfred Shrubbs' strenuous training is rapidly rounding the long-distance runners of Harvard into great condition for the intercollegiate cross-country championships at Princeton November 21st. Shrubbs, who is the greatest long-distance runner in the world, believes in plenty of hard work, and he has set a pace that only Harvard's finest runners will survive.

"I hope to make real distance runners out of the Harvard men," Shrubbs declared, "and I believe that they will be able to do it. I have seen them at the track team who, I believe, could be developed into fairly good cross-country runners. The only trouble with most of them is that they are not inured to hard practice. They think that if they can run two or three miles they are doing plenty of work."

"I am trying to impress on them that the only way to succeed in distance running is to work hard and faithfully. Of course, a man must have powerful legs and lungs and a strong heart before he can attempt to run long distances, but given these, the only thing that will perfect a man's endurance is hard practice. They think that if they can run a mile or two they are doing plenty of work. I will be satisfied with them. But until then they are not really distance runners."

The Harvard men declare that they are developing long tongues from having their hang out while they are training. "I make them work hard," Shrubbs says, "and I make them work hard. I will be satisfied with them. But until then they are not really distance runners."

YALE ELEVEN PLAYS GOOD PRACTICE GAME

NEW HAVEN, CONN., October 28.—In the rain here yesterday afternoon the Yale football squad had its practice, which was the most grueling of the season. The players have had their ankles sprained and have been otherwise injured when the field was in perfect condition, but yesterday, with the gridiron a pond, no one was scratched. The freshmen and the varsity had their second scrimmage of the year.

The varsity showed great improvement. Each of the backs, Holt, Brider and Haines, scored a touchdown, and the freshmen were unable to break through the strengthened varsity line. The varsity did not blank their opponents, for Savage dropped a goal from the field from the thirty-yard line.

Hobbs was out of the varsity line, and Lilley played in place. With Burch and Kilpatrick out, the end positions were played by Nadeau and Logan. They are very fast, and though not equal to the varsity players, they are on until the return of the injured men, which will probably be the Princeton game for Kilpatrick and the Harvard game for Captain Burch.

Loyd Mitchell, the great punter, was at the field assisting in the coaching yesterday afternoon. George Chadwick was also out with the men and was pleased with the work.

CADETS GETTING READY FOR U. VA.

Men in Good Condition and Are Working Hard for Game in Charlottesville.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] LEXINGTON, VA., October 28.—The V. M. I. team returned Sunday night from the hard game with V. P. I. in Roanoke, with practically all the men in good condition. Minton, who played such a good game at guard, has a sprained ankle, and will be out of the line-up until the Virginia game on November 7th, and it is very doubtful whether he will get back in running condition by that time. H. Prange is also in the hospital, but it is thought that he will be around again before November 7th.

The showing of the team in the V. P. I. game was much stronger than was expected, as this is the greenest and most inexperienced team that V. M. I. has put in the field for several years. On previous performances V. P. I. was scheduled to win handily and by a large score, whereas the game was very hotly contested from start to finish, the critics generally conceding V. M. I. to have played the stronger game after the first ten minutes of the first half and during the entire second half, through the game.

Hodgson, who performed so brilliantly in the game with Princeton the Saturday before, was not up to the mark in the V. M. I. game. The press dispatches state that of McLean, of V. M. I., who, though a strong punter, has never been considered an equal of Hodgson. McLean's good work at punting was somewhat detracted from by his unsuccessful efforts at field goals from placement; he had four chances, on none of which he made good.

While the entire V. M. I. team played well, the most brilliant work was done by McMillan, who has been playing back kicks, these two frequently bringing the ball back to the place from which it had been kicked. The V. M. I. ends, the Poague brothers, in the first half, and T. Poague and Scott in the second half, also were very fast in getting down on kicks and preventing V. P. I. from running the ball back for any material gains.

The V. M. I. team, with McMillan at quarter, and the first string of players in the line, played a very strong position from the crippled team using five substitutes, which was defeated by St. John's on the 17th. The attack, however, still remains to be developed. It is not yet going with sufficient speed to score on a team like V. P. I., Virginia or Davidson. In spots it is brilliant, but it is not consistent. Mr. Roller will put a great deal of time on this before the Virginia game.

It was particularly encouraging to the coaches that Kinsolving, who went in at quarter for McMillan in the last part of the game, performed so well. The problem of an acceptable understudy at quarter has given the coaches a great deal of concern, for a man that goes like McMillan does is apt to exhaust himself or put himself out of the playing before the game is finished. Kinsolving seems to be the answer.

Y. M. I. plays Roanoke College in Lexington October 31st, and Virginia at Charlottesville November 7th.

LONG SHOT WINS

NEW MARKET, ENGLAND, October 28.—The Cambridge stakes, for three-year-olds and upwards, were today by a rank outsider, the Duke of Devonshire's Marcellus. Captain J. R. Homfray's Land League was second, and Captain Kindall Smith's Succor was third. Twenty-three salesmen, Lord Derby's Cockatrice II, was ridden by "Danny" Maher, and was a warm favorite. The betting on Marcellus was 50 to 1 against.

RESERVED PROMOTION.

A Richmond Boy Who Worked From the Banks to Official Position.

Mr. Bernard B. Burton, his family, left Richmond last night to make their home in Birmingham, Ala., and thereby hangs a very interesting story. Twelve years ago the Rev. Dr. Nash called on Mr. J. G. Corley, the manager of the Cable Company, of this city, and recommended a young man for a job. The youth was introduced, and Mr. Corley put him to work. He worked well, and from the position of what may be termed office boy he quickly advanced to the position of office manager, and so on up, always displaying that kind of merit and those sterling business qualities which call for and always result in a first-class position in the Cable Company.

Three years ago Mr. Burton was made manager of the company's large offices at Norfolk, and recently the Cable Company had a vacancy in the important position of manager of the office of general manager for Alabama, at Birmingham. Mr. Corley recommended Mr. Burton for the place, and the Burton record, which the company had kept, being as clear as crystal, showed that Mr. Burton received the appointment.

Mr. Burton will have charge of the Cable Company's business in the State of Alabama, with a large corps of men working under his direction, and, judged by his bright record in Virginia, it is safe to say that this enterprising Virginian, who has worked from the ranks up to chief command, will make a true Virginian's mark in the busy commercial South.

PHILADELPHIA, October 28.—Another tale of woe has been sprung from the camp of the Pennsylvania football players. The coaches ordered a secret practice yesterday, which will be continued indefinitely. Few of the men who played against the Indians entered into the practice, and Captain Hollenback, Scarlett, Miller and Manier failed to appear. These men are still at the seashore recuperating, all of them being badly overtrained.

Coaches Metzger, Mitchell, Wharton, Folwell and Mulford were all out in togs, and drove the substitute and scrub players through a long and grueling practice. Coach Metzger sprung an innovation. The men were sent running in all directions, and as they ran they threw the ball about trying to catch it while on the run. The ability of the Indians to handle the ball, no matter which way or from what direction it was thrown, opened the eyes of Penn's coaches, and from now on the men will get this drill every afternoon.

That the variety and substitutes are state was shown in practice. When they lined up against the second eleven the line was ripped apart for big gains, and the ends were circled repeatedly. One of the promising features was the work of Means, a candidate for full back. He is a punter of more than ordinary ability, and can hit the line hard, as well as being an adept with the forward pass. Captain Folwell will not play against Carnegie Institute Saturday, and Means will play his position.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA., October 28.—College Topics, the semi-weekly published under the auspices of the General Athletic Association, of the University of Virginia, has the following statement in regard to the issue, under the heading "Is It Worth While?":

"We have here a rule that no man can play on Virginia's football team during his first year here, if he has previously been a member of the eleven at a college whose enrollment was more than 150. Is it worth while? The doubt has often been raised in our minds. Granting freely that our athletic interests are of great importance, and that the question arises: 'Is the one-year rule necessary to this end?' We believe it is not. With our most rigid standards as to the slightest taint of professionalism, and with the entrance requirements of this university standing as they do now, we cannot see the advantage to be gained by barring bona fide students from the team during their first year here."

This university is so small, and so large a percentage of her football material comes here to put in only one or two years of law or of special work, that such a rule handicaps Virginia immeasurably, and deprives her often of her best material, though the men be strictly bona fide students. In a larger university the rule is more reasonable, but here it seems to us to work unnecessary hardship without sufficient advantage apparent from its enforcement to need citing. There are men in college every year whose athletic record is spotless and whose presence on Lambert Field would strengthen the team immensely. Should they not be there?"

NAVY TO ROW CORNELL

ANNAPOLIS, MD., October 28.—It was learned here today that the Naval Academy rowing authorities have determined to challenge Cornell for either a two or four-mile race on the Hudson river this spring. The midshipmen branched out last year when they took on Harvard for a race, and their determination to row Cornell, a regular entrant at Poughkeepsie for four miles is taken to indicate that all hopes of sending a crew to the big event on the Hudson in 1909 has been abandoned.

KELLEY DESERTS CHICAGO ELEVEN

Big Right Tackle Takes Offense at Stag's Changing Him and Quits Team.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] CHICAGO, October 28.—A football sensation of the first magnitude was sprung in the Maroon camp yesterday, when Kelley, the big right tackle of the Chicago team, deserted Stag's squad. The star lineman refused to come out for practice, declaring himself through with the Maroons because of what he believed to have been a humiliation inflicted on him by Coach Stag. Kelley's departure followed his resenting the coach's action in shifting him from his regular right tackle position to a back position. Coach Stag gave Falk his position in scrimmage, and Kelley left Maroon camp yesterday morning, his misjudgment. Instead of joining in yesterday's practice he announced that he would have no more to do with the team, and that he would return to the university at the end of this week.
